Third Week of Congress

Probable Program of the Proceedings.

PREPARATIONS FOR A RECESS.

Both Branches Will Probably Adjourn on Thursday Until After the Holidays. But Little Legislation Expected—The Work of Several Senate Committees.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—There are just two things certain in the program of congress for the coming week, both house and senate will pass resolutions authorizing the payment of the employees before the holidays for their work for the month of December, and the two houses will pass a concurrent resolution for the adjournment of congress probably from Dec. 19 until Jan. 6. A resolution providing for a recess between these dates is already on the table of the president of the senate, and unless some unexpected business comes before the two houses or either of them, an adjournment for the holidays will be had on Thursday next.

The houses of representatives can afford to take a recess at this date, because it has already accomplished much more than was expected of it before the holiday season. Speaker Reed has surprised and delighted the older members of the house, who have been so long accustomed to postponing organization until the holiday season was over, by the appointment of the most important committees; and even at this early date, speculation is rife as to a possible early adjournment of congress for the session, say in July next.

The senate will get more actively to work than the house during the week. Work has dragged a little in the upper house because the committees had not been reorganized, and because until this work had been done, senators did not care to go ahead with the consideration of routine business. The Democratic caucus will determine the assignment of Democratic senators to empty committee places, and when the senate meets the reorganization will be effected and the senate will be ready for regular work. Not much can be accomplished through this week.

The most interesting feature of the proceedings to look forward to is a possible debate between Senator Butler and Senator Ingalls on the race question. Senator Butler has introduced in the senate a bill providing for the emigration of colored persons from the southern states. It is on the table ready to be taken up whenever the senator from South Carolina is prepared to speak on the subject. Senator Butler has given no notice of an intention to address the senate at any particular time, and he is in fact undetermined when he will speak; but it is not improbable that he will take the matter up some day this week. If he does Senator Ingalls, who has been preparing material for the occasion, will reply to him, and an interesting debate may be expected—one that will pack the galleries of the senate.

The senate committee on territories, of which Senator Platt is chairman, will hold a meeting to hear arguments of the delegates from Idaho and Wyoming on the bills to admit those two territories to the Union. There is evidently an intention on the part of the committee to bring this matter before the senate at an early date, but it will not come up for general discussion until the holidays are over.

The senate committee on public lands will probably make a favorable report to the senate on the bill to permit settlers to obtain title to land in towns and cities in Oklahoma, and on the bill granting to the state of Kansas the Fort Hayes military reservation. The former will likely be called and passed before the end of the week, the necessity for its passage in some form being generally recognized.

The house of representatives has very little business before it. The Silcott committee may make a report before the end of the week, which will give the members something to talk about. It is generally expected that Speaker Reed will announce some more committees, but he said yesterday that he had not determined whether to do so or not. Some deficiency appropriation bills will be reported to the house and probably passed.

Will Hold the Government Responsible. WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Four of the seven members, or a majority of the committee engaged in the investigation of the shortage in the office of the late sergeant-at-arms' office of the house of representatives, have announced to members of the house their determination to vote for a report that the sergeant-at-arms is a discharging officer of the government. This will throw the burden of the loss from the shoulders of the members to those of the government.

Ten Tons of Nitro Glycerine Go Off. JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 16.—Three magazines containing ten tons of nitro glycerine exploded near North Clarendon, Pa., at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, setting fire to 25,000 barrels of oil, destroying three oil derricks and delaying the railroad traffic for several hours. The shock shattered the windows in North Clarendon for half a mile around. No one was injured. No cause for the explosion is assigned. The loss will probably reach $70,000.

The Lone Highwayman Heard From. NEVADA, Cal., Dec. 16.—The stage from Drownville was stopped by a lone highwayman Sunday afternoon. There were three passengers, one of whom escaped to the woods. The other two were ordered to dismount, as were also the two occupants of a freight wagon which followed the stage. About $150 was taken from the passengers.

BROWNING'S END.

The Poet Did Not Realize That It Was Near—The Funeral.

VENICE, Dec. 16.—The expressions of grief and sympathy called forth by the death of Robert Browning recall the similar expressions on the death of Wagner. Browning refused to the last to believe that he was seriously ill. Every day, whatever the weather, he went in an open gondola to Lido. He was taken ill on Nov. 27, but he insisted on going to the theater against the advice of friends. During the night he was seized with a serious attack of bronchitis. The disease dragged on until his heart became affected, but he constantly repeated that he was getting better.

On Thursday last, the day of his death, he declared that he would get up on the following day. His family did not suppose that the end was so near.

At 7 in the evening he became very weak, and had great difficulty in breathing. Shortly before he died he turned to his son and asked for news from his publisher. The son read a telegram saying that the edition of his last volume of poems was almost exhausted. The poet, upon hearing this, smiled and murmured: "How gratifying." These were his last words.

The funeral service was held yesterday in the Palazzo Rezzonico. The family desired to inter the remains at Florence, but in accordance with the desire of the English people, the body will be taken to London on Tuesday for interment in Westminster abbey. At the service the coffin was covered with beautiful wreaths, one of which had been sent by the municipal authorities of Venice. Many diplomats and officials and a large number of English and American residents, including Mrs. Bronson, an intimate friend of the poet, were present at the service.

The cortege started at 4 o'clock. The body had been placed on a splendid funeral barge, which was towed by a steamer of the royal navy. On the barge as a guard of honor were members of the Municipal guard and firemen. The family and intimate friends followed in separate gondolas. The coffin was deposited in the central chapel of the cemetery of St. Michael, where it will remain until the conclusion of the formalities attending its transportation to London.

Prince Minister Crispi sent a message of condolence to the family of the poet.

Humbert's Sympathy. ROME, Dec. 16.—King Humbert has instructed the Italian ambassador at London to express Italy's sympathy with the English people on the death of Robert Browning.

KILRAIN GUILTY.

He is Sentenced to Pay a Fine of $200 and Be Imprisoned for Two Months.

PURVEY, Miss., Dec. 16.—The jury in the Kilrain case returned a verdict of not guilty of prize fighting, but guilty of assault and battery. They were out five hours.

A motion for a new trial was overruled. The $100 fines imposed upon Messrs. Fitzpatrick and Hinton were remitted.

In pronouncing sentence the court said that since his acquaintance with Kilrain he had found him a true gentleman and had formed quite a liking for him. "You have," continued the judge, "been found guilty of assault and battery, and though my sympathies are with you, in the face and facts I sentence you to pay a fine of $200 and serve a term of two months in the county jail."

Col. Deason asked that the judge set aside the imprisonment, but Judge Terrell said that he had been very lenient in sentencing Kilrain. He fixed Kilrain's appeal bond at $1,000, and allowed thirty days in which to file exceptions and take an appeal.

Kilrain is highly pleased with the verdict, though he says it will be hard to serve his imprisonment. It is much better than the dose given Sullivan.

He leaves in the morning for Richmond, accompanied by Dr. A. Adler and Mr. Charles W. Rich, and will run down to New Orleans to pay a visit to his friends, after which he will go to Richmond, then to his home, and remain until February, when the supreme court will meet at Jackson. Kilrain's appeal bond was signed by Charles Rich, Col. Hinton and T. White.

A Freight Wreck.

OTTAWA, Ill., Dec. 16.—A bad accident occurred on the Fox River line of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, about midnight Friday night. A way car and several loaded freight cars were standing on the track at Wedron station, twelve miles north of Ottawa, when a second freight train came crashing into the rear of the first. The locomotive, way car and several freight cars were totally wrecked, and catching fire were burned. Flames from the wreck communicated to a grain warehouse, recently the property of H. S. Gilbert, and this, too, was burned, with its contents. Loss to the railroad company, $20,000; on elevator and grain, $4,000. The train men all escaped without serious injury.

Instantly Killed in a Saloon.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Dec. 16.—At 2 o'clock this morning James Rice, a cook in Bader's saloon, in Stanton, Neb., being angry at a young man named Elmer Erwin because he would not treat to whisky, deliberately stabbed the latter in the breast with a butcher knife, killing him almost instantly. Erwin was the dissipated son of one of the leading wholesale merchants of Sioux City. The murderer was arrested.

Grain Destroyed by Floods.

MARYSVILLE, Cal., Dec. 16.—The high water from the Sacramento river caused the Johnson levee to break Sunday morning, and the extensive domain of the Sutter County Land company, together with several thousand acres of valuable land, was flooded. The loss to grain is estimated by Deputy Assessor Gladden, of Sutter county, at about $250,000.

Cronin Jury Still Out.

The Twelve Men Unable to Reach an Agreement.

ELEVEN TO ONE FOR CONVICTION

Judge McConnell Declares That He Will Keep Them Locked Up for One Week Unless They Reach an Agreement—The Suspense Telling on the Suspects.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—The jury in the Cronin case has passed another night in its room. It stands just where it was on the first ballot on Friday night—11 to 1 in favor of convicting all the defendants. The recalcitrant juror, John Culver, who would not have a word to say to his associates yesterday, has unbended far enough to discuss some portions of the evidence. Judge McConnell came in from his residence, at Lakeview, at 4 o'clock Sunday and waited until 6, when receiving no word from the jury room, he declared the court adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

Groups of people hung around the three sides of the criminal court building throughout the day and evening, and indulged in some strong talk concerning Culver, and threats of lynching in case he hung the jury freely made. Out in the aristocratic suburb of Evanston, where he resides, the excitement was intense during the day. The churches had less than their usual complement of worshippers, and the suburbanites gathered in groups on the streets, or visited at each other's houses to denounce the peculiar action of their neighbor. All sorts of rumors concerning the motive for Culver's position are current, and it is broadly insinuated in more than one of the papers that he has been "fixed" in a financial sense.

Culver is a strict church member and a rabid prohibitionist, and put in all his spare time during the trial both in the court room and at the hotel in reading the New Testament, a copy of which he always carried with him. Just as he was leaving the court room on Friday afternoon his wife through the negligence of the bailiffs managed to reach his side, and the two indulged in a whispered conversation lasting two or three minutes.

State's Attorney Longenecker and his associates are still hopeful of a favorable verdict. Judge McConnell visited the jury room before leaving for home, but would say nothing regarding the prospects. Among the court official whom he subsequently met and talked with, however, a more hopeful feeling seems to prevail. The jury, if it fails to agree to-day, will be again locked up, as the judge has publicly declared that he will give them a week from Friday in which to reach a verdict. Should there be a disagreement and a mistrial the state's attorney will at once move for a special venire, and a second trial will be inaugurated without delay.

The Tribune says: In case of a disagreement of the Cronin jury, the course of the defense will be to ask for a change of venue to some other county on account of local prejudice. This will be resisted. But the case will be proceeded with at all hazards.

The jury bribers' cases will be called to-day and pushed to an immediate trial. Some interesting developments are expected, especially in relation to Johnny Graham. "E. J. McArdle, clerk in Alexander Sullivan's office, will be one of the principal witnesses against Graham," said Mr. Longenecker last evening. "We will break up this jury-fixing business as surely as we will convict the Cronin murderers," he added with emphasis.

Suspense Telling on the Prisoners.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—A morning paper says: It is evident that the suspense is telling heavily on the Cronin suspects. Beggs seemed to have an idea that his fate was trembling in the balance, and that his case was the cause of the long delay. His efforts to conceal his emotions were heroic. Kunze maintained his careless demeanor, apparently believing that whatever the verdict his life was in no danger. Coughlin's face was a sealed book. He grew more sullen, sour and taciturn as the hours passed. Burke was stolid. O'Sullivan was wrapped in the deepest despondency.

When the news of the adjournment till this morning was received there was a slight lifting of the tension, and the prisoners retired to their bunks.

Attempt to Bribe a Juror.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—The Times says: Juror Charles C. Dix a few days ago donned his overcoat at the Commercial hotel, preparatory to beginning his march to the court room. He placed his hand in one of the pockets when he discovered a parcel. A closer examination disclosed an envelope, and this contained a letter and a brand new necktie. The letter was desirous of ascertaining whether Mr. Dix was a man who could be "seed." It stated that if he would vote for acquittal there would be plenty of "stuff" in it for him, and that if he was "in" it he was to wear the necktie which was inclosed. Mr. Dix placed the entire matter in State's Attorney Longenecker's hands, where it now rests.

Senator Kennedy's Views.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—A special to The Herald from Milwaukee says: Senator Kennedy, the man who was Burke's original counsel and withdrew from the case at a critical point in the trial, is watching the result with intense interest. "That jury is packed," said he, last night when told that no agreement had been arrived at. "It is all nonsense," he continued, "to think the jury are quibbling over such a slight thing as the term of imprisonment for one of the defendants. Such differences of opinion in a jury room are soon settled after a prisoner is found guilty. Let me tell you that not one of the defendants has been found guilty by that jury. There are eleven for the conviction of all of them, and one who will vote for a week for acquittal. Who the man is I have not the slightest idea. I did not wish to draw from the case because I thought the jury was fixed."

A Rumored Agreement.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—The Herald this morning says: The jurors in the Cronin case have at last come to an agreement. They are now a unit for the conviction of the five prisoners, but the punishment has not yet been discussed. A verdict may be expected to-day.

LONDON GAS STOKERS.

Their Great Strike Proves a Dismal Failure—Other News.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The gasstokers have made a sorry mess of their attempt to force the companies to their views of the wage question. Whether their set-back is the turning point in the strike epidemic or not is not yet certain, but the general belief is that such is the case, and that a reaction may now be looked for toward harder lines for the working classes. The Socialists, who, from the start, opposed John Burns' way of doing things, and sneered at his idea that the lion of capital and the lamb of labor could be made to lie down together, are already ringing the changes on "I told you so."

The people who entertain hopes that the conflict between labor and capital will eventually be settled on the co-operative basis, will be cheered by the action of the owners of the immense Bute docks at Cardiff, in apportioning among their workmen five shares bearing 5 per centum profits. The Marquess of Bute, chief owner of the property, is said to be the wealthiest man in England, and those who do not pin their faith of social regeneration on co-operation can at least console themselves with the reflection that in this case the person who tries the experiment is able to stand the loss if there be any.

Mr. Gladstone, replying to a request to throw his great influence into the scale in favor of an eight-hour movement, declines on account of his age and the engrossing character of the Irish question to initiate the agitation on the subject. He says that he will dispassionately consider the matter whenever a bill embodying the idea is presented.

Lord Randolph Churchill, in replying to a similar invitation, says that a system of eight hours for sleep, eight hours for labor and eight hours for recreation, seems to be an ideal toward which democratic legislation may wisely and profitably aim. It would diminish the number of the unemployed, and also the profits of the capitalists; but the latter disadvantage, if such it be, would be largely outweighed by the increased comfort and contentment of the laborer.

Lord Randolph Churchill's reply to the Ayrshire miners, who sought his views on the eight hour question, is regarded as a mere personal bid for popularity among the masses, and not as yet indicating the attitude of the aristocratic party in the house of commons, should the matter ever come to a vote. Lord Randolph Churchill commits himself in favor of such a measure, and this is in line with his former occasional appearances in the role of a friend of the poorer classes, yet for some reason which probably no one could explain, his utterances do not gain him the popularity which he evidently seeks by them.

Some men are never taken seriously, and Churchill has the political misfortune to have got himself into this class. He also failed, apparently, to realize that the miners did not care whether he was for or against the proposal for a shorter day. Their object in addressing public men is as much a mischievous as a serious one. The leaders of the labor movements delight in nothing more than in forcing the leaders of the political parties to commit themselves. Mr. Gladstone was too old a bird to be caught with this chaff, and his response to the miners is a model of how not to commit one's self on a point that may have awkward sequels.

Exiles Fired on by Soldiers.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 16.—News is received from Siberia that a party of exiles were fired upon by soldiers and six of them, including a woman, were killed and nine wounded. Their offense was that they declined to withdraw a petition which was construed as rebellious. After the shooting a court martial was held and three men were sentenced to death and several to imprisonment for long terms. One of those condemned to death had been wounded during the shooting. He was carried to the gallows on a bed.

The Strikers' Last Hope.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The striking gas employees now concede that their only hope of success lies in the possibility of stopping the coal supply of the companies. The key to the situation, therefore, seems to be with the coal porters and other workers in the coal interests.

England Strengthening Her Forts.

Powder and Dynamite Combine.

Death of Mother Medill.

Important Suit.

W. R. Goff, a former citizen of Dover, now living at Shelbyville, has filed suit in the Louisville Law and Equity Court, in which the Louisville Leaf Tobacco Exchange, the Reclamation Committee and John Finzer & Bro. are made defendants. The Shelby Sentinel says: "On October 31st, Mr. Goff sold to Finzer & Bro., manufacturers, of Louisville, 27 hogsheads of tobacco. On November 18 the Finzers demanded a reclamation on the ground that the tobacco was not up to the sample. The reclamation, amounting to $1 268 98, was paid, Mr. Goff, however, stating that his foreman had packed the tobacco, and disavowing any attempt to deceive the purchaser by 'nesting.' The Finzers now claim that the plaintiff did fraudulently pack the tobacco in such a way that the bulk was inferior to the sample shown, and they have asked the committee for another reclamation. To this the plaintiff objects. He says his fair fame as one of the finest tobacco-growers in the market will be irreparably damaged if another reclamation is now allowed, to say nothing of the money he might have to pay out. To that end he secured a temporary order of injunction restraining the defendants from proceeding to re-open the claim. * * *

"Mr. Goff will fight any further reclamations to the bitter end, and if he gains his point, will knock some of the rules of the Exchange sky-high---greatly to the advantage of the seller."

Don't Miss it.

The same company that scored such a success in the above opera at Cincinnati last September will appear at the opera house Wednesday night. "Said Pasha" is the reigning comic opera, and draws big crowds wherever presented.

A rumor is current to-day that Prof. J. H. Kappes has been appointed postmaster to succeed Mr. A. C. Respass. The BULLETIN hasn't information that such an appointment has been made.

M'DOWELL'S APPOINTMENT.

Some Kentucky Republicans Will Make a Warm Fight to Prevent His Confirmation.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer says: "It is understood that the Kentucky Republicans who were opposed to the appointment of T. C. McDowell to succeed the late Colonel Goodloe as Collector of Internal Revenue at Lexington will make an earnest opposition to his confirmation by the Senate. The nomination has not yet been sent to the Senate by the President. It is intimated that Senator Sherman, who was a warm supporter of Colonel Swope, will champion the cause of the Kentuckians opposed to McDowell's selection.

"One of the charges against the appointee is that he has never voted the Republican ticket, and that both he and his father have both affiliated with the Democrats. The only claim, it is alleged, he has on the Republican party comes from the fact that he is a son-in-law of the dead Collector. McDowell will have the support of the two Kentucky Senators on account of family and social relations."

The BULLETIN stated two or three weeks ago that McDowell's enemies were making preparations to prevent, if possible, his confirmation. From what was learned at that time, Judge Thomas and his friends are at the bottom of the business.

The National Democrat has something on the subject. It says: "The friends of Colonel Swope allege that McDowell's policy of proscribing Swope men in distributing the patronage of the office will widen the breach between the two factions and disrupt the party, and within the past few days President Harrison has been informed of the situation of affairs. 'I told the President,' said one of Swope's friends, 'that McDowell's appointment was unfortunate in every way from a party and political point of view. He should have gone outside of both factions, as was suggested to him by the best and strongest Republicans of the State, but, no! he wouldn't listen; he wanted to do that which he thought would do himself most good, at the expense of the party, as he now finds the case to be. Then, again, we didn't want Mr. Clarkson, of Iowa, to mix himself up in this matter. We resent his interference very warmly; it was none of his business. He not only put his own hand in, but he induced Senator Quay to take a hand. It was purely a local matter and should have been settled by the party leaders within the State. If McDowell is confirmed there will be bad feeling and trouble in the Republican party in Kentucky. The appointment was a very great mistake. Mr. Harrison may have pleased himself by gratifying a sentiment, but he has made a mistake, as I said before.'"

THE verdict in the case of Walter Trimble, convicted of murder at Lexington—punishment fixed at death—has been set aside by Judge Morton, it having been shown that one of the jurors had taken several drinks while deliberating on the case.

MRS. GEORGE WORMALD, Sr., fell at her home in Bellevue Friday afternoon and dislocated her right arm. Her husband has been seriously ill for some time, and the shock from her accident so affected her that she is reported in a critical condition.

MISS MAGGIE BATEMAN and Mr. John Stevenson were married last Thursday at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Amos Bateman, in Fayette County. The bride is a niece of Mr. George F. Bateman, of Lewisburg, and formerly resided in that vicinity.

THE Enquirer says: "A car-load of Cincinnatians go to Maysville Wednesday, the 18th, to be present at the marriage of Miss Belle Phister, a sparkling blue grass belle, and Mr. Herbert N. Reno, the popular cashier of the Equitable Insurance Company. The church ceremony will be followed by a royal reception at the home of the bride's parents."

THOMAS COOPER, at one time an employe of the James H. Hall Plow Company, died Saturday at his home in Aberdeen. He was a member of Charter Oak Lodge, I. O. O. F., of that place, and was buried this morning with the honors of that order. Several Oddfellows of this city attended. Haucke's Reed and Brass Band furnished music.

THE Lexington Gazette has the following in reference to a former citizen of Mason: "Mr. D. F. Frazee disclaims being a real estate plunger. His recent operations at Middlesborough, though extensive, were only the reinvestments of profits already realized, which he thinks a perfectly legitimate transaction. But the boys back from Middlesborough say that he is a perfect hustler when it comes to town lots in a new town, and that it made their heads swim to look on while he was bidding on the most desirable lots at the late sale in that place."

THOUGHTS

SUGGESTED BY A GLANCE AT THE SHOW WINDOW OF MINER & BRO.

'Twas the week before Christmas, when all through the town
The people were walking the streets up and down;
They elbowed and jostled each other like mad,
In spending for Christmas all the money they had.
And I in my Arctic, for the weather was damp,
Was shod and equipped for a long winter's tramp,
When over the way there arose such a clatter,
I crossed very quick to see what was the matter.
Away through the mud I flew like a flash,
To MINER & BROTHER'S, we all made a dash;
The front was blocked up by a very great crowd,
Who expressed much delight in terms quick and loud.
And then in the window to my eyes did appear
A pile of Plush Bags for happy New Year;
With appropriate signs so lovely and neat,
I knew in a moment what excited the street.

Of beautiful colors harmoniously blended,
The tints and the hues seem quite unended;
Of purple, of garnet, of blue and carnelian,
Of yellow, of orange, of green and vermillion.
From top to the bottom a brilliant display
Of "Colchester" Rubbers in gorgeous array;
Unlined, "pure gum," with sizes on tags,
All packed for the Holidays in little plush bags.
The Shoes were well fitting, and light on the feet,
And never would slip off while crossing the street;
The shape—oh! how stylish! the stock, how elastic!
To walk seemed like dancing the light and fantastic.
I spoke not a word, but went straightway to work;
Bought several nice pairs and paid the smart clerk;
And exclaimed to myself, as I passed out of sight,
"They are just what I want, and the price is all right."

BUYERS of holiday gifts will find at S. Simon's store, on Market street, a choice selection of china, cut glass, bisque ware and other articles in that line at very low prices. He is closing out a stock of toys at half the original price. Bargain hunters are advised to read his advertisement printed elsewhere.

THE suit against the Concord & Tollesboro Turnpike Company has been settled in favor of the people. Mr. Sam Smoot, formerly of this county, was interested. He held some of the company's bonds and sought to mandamus the county and compel it to levy a tax on property along the road to pay the indebtedness.

THERE are four murderers awaiting execution in Bourbon, Scott and Fayette counties, and all within the jurisdiction of Judge Morton's district. They are Pat Hunt, at Paris, for killing James Abnee; John Green, colored, at Georgetown, for killing his wife; Tom O'Brien, at Lexington, for killing Betty Shea, and Walter Trimble, colored, at Lexington, for killing another negro.

NEAR Foster last Saturday, Pat Haney was walking on the track of the C. and O. railroad when he was struck by a train and torn to pieces. One of his legs was cut off, his head mashed into an unrecognizable mass, and his remains scattered along the road. He was injured some time since at Walton, Ky., and had a suit for damages pending in court. He leaves a widow, but no children.

SAYS the Bourbon News: "Mrs. Bullock, wife of Rev. Mr. Bullock of Germantown, was here Thursday selling the genuine sacred lily bulbs, recently imported from China, and she took many orders and will be here next week to deliver them. The genuine sacred lily is a most beautiful flower, and can be imported only in the month of October. They are planted in jars of water and bloom in about six weeks. They are very fragrant and desirable as winter bloomers."

Railway News.

One item of freight the C. & O. got at Vanceburg last week was 10,000,000 feet of lumber.

The Rate and Division clerks of the C. and O. will, after January 1, be located in Cincinnati. They are now in Richmond.

Mileposts are being placed along the line of the C. & O., and new and handsome tool houses are being erected, and the number of the sections are being changed all along the route.

At the end of the year 1888 Brazil had 5,358 miles of road in operation, while 945 miles were in course of construction. In the Argentine Republic the length of lines in operation on Dec. 31, 1888, amounted to 4,624 miles, while work on 2,874 was in progress.

It is said in railroad circles that it is very likely that the headquarters of J. C. Loomis, Superintendent of the Cincinnati Division of the Chesapeake and Ohio Road, will in the near future be removed from this city to Maysville, Ky.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Ohio Falls Car Works, at Jeffersonville, have contracted to build 1,200 first-class, improved freight and refrigerator cars, and twenty-three passenger coaches, all of the very best construction, representing an aggregate cost of over half a million dollars. This order is from the Central Railroad of Georgia, and the cars are to be delivered as fast as they are completed, beginning January 1.

The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, says: "A call at the office of Vice President and General Manager Huntington, of the Kentucky Central Railroad, for information regarding the sale of the Kentucky Central Railroad, resulted in his statement that 'no information regarding the sale of the road has been received. In fact, there is no talk about selling the road except by a few on the street, who know nothing about the matter.'"

The Brazilian Republic

A Further Account of the Revolution.

AN UPRISING OF THE PEOPLE.

A Report That the Inhabitants of Bahia Revolted, and Five Hundred of Them Were Killed—Defying the New Government, But Compelled to Submit.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The steamship Horox, from Brazil, arrived at her docks at Martin's Stores, Brooklyn, Sunday morning. She left Rio Janeiro on Nov. 23 with a cargo consigned to Buck & Jevane, and her officers bring some interesting news of the recent formation of the Brazilian Republic.

The Horox was at Santos when the news of the deposing of the emperor was first announced. The inhabitants of the place were astonished when they received the news, and many were inclined to disbelieve it. The republicans placarded the place with handbills on which was printed the official information, and also a paragraph requesting the people not to hold any political meetings until later. This movement had its intended effect as the situation was accepted by the people without any manifested dissatisfaction.

At Rio Janeiro the Horox lay two days. Although everything appeared quiet when she arrived there, Capt. Herring and First Officer Black, when they went on shore heard many rumors which indicated that the people had not received the news of the revolution with that degree of calmness that characterized the actions of the inhabitants of Santos. One man, De Gama by name, a collector of customs at that port, and a strong imperialist, held on to the flags of the empire and refused to remove from his uniform the buttons on which were stamped the crown. Threats were of no avail, and the collector locked himself up in his house to escape the wrath of the republicans. Ten days after the news of the deposing of the emperor had been made public, De Gama submitted to the demands of the new government, removed the objectionable buttons and gave up the imperial flag.

Capt. Herring heard that during one of the nights De Gama was holding out a small party of republicans surrounded the house and tried to set fire to it as well as to riddle its inmates with bullets. De Gama was not deprived of his office. A number of men who held office under the emperor were retained in the same position by the republic.

On the second day of the revolution a cipher dispatch was received at Rio announcing that there had been an uprising at Bahia, one of the northern provinces. It was said the dispatch contained the information that a fight had taken place between the militia, and a large mass of the people refused to believe the news and that nearly 500 people had been killed.

Capt. Herring said that the government at once stopped all cipher telegraphic communication, and placed strict watch on all ordinary messages that were sent on the wires. The news of the uprising caused a little excitement at Rio, but it was afterward given out that there was no truth in the report. Where the contradiction came from was not known to the officers of the Horox. They heard it talked of by the people at Rio. The republicans left no stone unturned to accomplish their purpose. So complete were their arrangements that when the republic was announced all of the imperial war vessels that for weeks had been lying in the harbor were so fixed that it was impossible for them to participate in any uprising that might have possibly occurred. The man-of-war Mithero had been placed in a dry dock several days before, and was half dismantled when the republicans made their great move.

Besides Collector De Gama there were several officers who refused to submit to the republicans, but unlike De Gama, their fate is unknown. It was on the first night of the revolution that these naval officers, eight in number, are said to have defied the authority of the new government. The story goes that the men climbed on the Liverpool steamer Chatham, which lay at her dock, and, securing a boat, rowed out upon the harbor bearing an imperial flag. A party of republicans gave chase in another boat, and some shots were exchanged.

The naval officers were captured and incarcerated in a prison on one of the small islands in the harbor. None of the men had been seen up to the time the Horox left Rio, and Capt. Herring said the general belief of the people was that they had been secretly shot while in prison, as the noise of the discharge of firearms had been heard in the prison the next day by some people who were near the spot. The Chatham, on which the naval officers are said to have climbed, belongs to Lanepont & Holt, the same firm that owns the Horox.

A Manifesto Issued.

LISBON, Dec. 16.—The Brazilian consul has received a telegram from Rio announcing that a decree has been issued, declaring that all foreigners resident in Brazil are citizens of the republic from the date of the proclamation thereof, and all foreigners shall in future be regarded as Brazilian subjects and shall possess every right except that of becoming chief of state after two years' residence.

Ouro Preto, late prime minister of Brazil, has issued a manifesto in which he says the imperial government was betrayed by the leaders of the army and navy, including the minister of war, Maracaju. Professions of loyalty on the part of the military blinded the government to the existence of the conspiracy.

Preto complains of his treatment in prison and says he was informed that he would be shot if his friends offered armed resistance. He urges the people of Brazil to exercise their freedom of choice at the coming elections. He counsels his friends to vote for any of his adherents who may become candidates.

A $250,000 Gift to a University.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Dr. Daniel Ayres, of Brooklyn, has given $250,000 to Wesleyan university.

Lieutenant Lucien Young.

A recent issue of the New York Herald in a long illustrated article on the shining lights of Washington City, and following an excellent likeness of Lieutenant Young, has the following to say:

Lieutenant Young has the notable distinction of being the bravest man in the service. He has risked his life so often to save others that he seems to bear a charmed existence. His career has been a series of wonderful ventures and wonderful escapes. It was he who carried a life line from the sinking steamer Huron to the shore of Nag's Head, N. C. Buffeting with angry waves for hours, at length he reached the shore, and his efforts saved all that were rescued from the fatal ship. Congress gave him a medal for his heroism, and the Legislature of his native State (Kentucky) presented him with a handsome sword. Lieutenant Young has been for some time in the Naval War Records office. In society the gallant Lieutenant is a leading favorite. He is fond of the ladies and equally popular among his brother officers.

Physically a giant even in his cadet days, he is still considered the perfection of masculine physique. With good looks, even temper and indifference to personal danger that always marks the hero, it is no wonder that Lieutenant Young is the idol of his friends.

Lieutenant Young is a brother of Dick Young, who has charge of Limestone Stock Farm.

Mr. Q. A. MEANS has in his possession what many would consider a valuable relic in the shape of what might be termed a gold or silver certificate issued by Virginia in days long gone by. The paper is yellow with age, and is a little larger than the old fifty-cent shinplaster. One side is entirely blank. On the other side at the left hand end is the coat of arms of Virginia, beneath which is the State's motto: "Ei Semper Tyrannus."

The certificate reads: SIX SPANISH MILLED DOLLARS of their value in GOLD or SILVER, to be given in EXCHANGE for this bill at the TREASURY of VIRGINIA, pursuant to ACT OF ASSEMBLY, passed Oct. 7, 1776. B. DICKSON, JAS. WRAY.

The number of the certificate, 24,394, appears on the margin at the top, and is written in ink. The paper is the property of Mr. McCormick, the present driver of the Mt. Carmel bus.

ABERDEEN OHAT.

H. S. True, of Dover, was in town this week. Hal Herbert is home after an absence of several years abroad.

J. A. Sands, of Rome, has put Simmons' celebrated medicated well in running order again.

Wait for it. All railroads will side track to it—the hop in C. B. Sutton's new warehouse when completed.

The young folks had quite an enjoyable hop at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Shelton Friday night.

W. N. Campbell will have a choice line of holiday goods, fine candies, nuts, oranges and all tropical fruits in abundance before Christmas.

If our merchants have any specialties they want advertised for their holiday trade give us a call and we will direct them up to suit at reasonable rates.

Mrs. Wm. Arthurs, of Ironton, was visiting here last week. She was accompanied home Friday by Mrs. Arthurs' son and her venerable father, David Clark.

It promises to be a grand affair. It took like red lemonade at a circus—our proposal to inaugurate a hop at the Mineral Well House. It is a sure go, Christmas Eve.
